

Talk tour: Stoat/rat trapping best practice update and New A24 Automatic Stoat / Rat Trap

Best Practice update:

Kill trap best practice for stoat and rat control is constantly evolving. Darren Peters, Department of Conservation, Research and Development Predator Control, will give an update of current best practice.

Goodnature A24 Automatic Humane Rat + Stoat Trap

The A24 is a multi species kill trap, targeting rats and stoats, with a highly sensitive leaf trigger. As incredibly compact as the A24 is, it still manages to deliver an impact more powerful than any other device on the market.

Designed in the harshest of New Zealand environments, the A24 is just as happy in the backyard or the attic as it is on rugged terrain. It is robust, small and powerful with 24 resets in every CO2 canister.

For more information contact:

Darren Peters:

dpeters@doc.govt.nz

Mob: 027 431 0136

www.doc.govt.nz

Stu Barr:

stu@goodnature.co.nz

Mob: 021 455 190

www.goodnature.co.nz

goodnature[®]

Department of Conservation
Te Papa Atawhai

New Zealand Government